Reflections on the Life of
Leola B. Robinson Marsh
(1914 – 2011)

Mrs. Marsh with sons Frederick (L) and William (R) at her 90th birthday party.

Mrs. Leola B. Robinson Marsh was born in Pike Road, Alabama, to Reverend W. E. Robinson and Pearlie B. Robinson. Her early years were spent in a rural environment in a house with no electricity or running water and where school homework was often done by kerosene lantern. She joined First Baptist Church of Pike Road at the age of 12 and shortly thereafter joined Day Street Baptist Church when her family moved to Montgomery City.

She was a graduate of Alabama State University and spent 40 years in elementary and middle school education during which time she touched the lives of many in a positive and lasting manner. Mrs. Marsh spent 15 years in the Pike County school system where for several years she served as the Principal of Goshen Junior High School. The remainder of her career was spent as an instructor in the Montgomery County Schools that included 15 years at George Washington Carver Elementary School, 5 years at Seth Johnson School, and 5 years at Arthur Cook Elementary School.

Mrs. Marsh was a dedicated member of Day Street Baptist Church for over 80 years where she demonstrated a deep religious and community commitment by being a participant in numerous organizations and activities. She also served as president of the neighborhood club in her community for over 20 years and was a member of the Order Of Eastern Star. She was a respected leader whose opinion mattered to those around her.

Mrs. Marsh was blessed with the gift of a beautiful singing voice and she used that gift to glorify the Lord both at home and at church. Her children can still remember during their early childhood days that she would sing favorite hymns while doing housework. As a teenager, she joined the Junior Choir at Day Street Baptist Church and progressed to the Sanctuary Choir as an adult. Altogether, she spent over 70 years singing in a choir at Day Street. She was often called upon to sing solo in the Sanctuary Choir of which she served as president for many years.

Those who knew her, will remember Mrs. Marsh for her qualities of faith, family, love, friendship, and commitment. She was married to the late F. Mayo Marsh for over 50 years. This union produced two sons, Frederick and William.

The “Footsteps” scholarship honors her name by being awarded to a student who has some of her same interests and demonstrates some of her admirable qualities.

About the administrator – The administrator and benefactor of this scholarship is Frederick L. Marsh; one of Leola B. Marsh’s sons. He graduated from George Washington Carver High School in 1965 and has a Master of Science degree in electrical engineering. After retiring from the Tennessee Valley Authority, he now performs volunteer work and is the web designer and coordinator of the Technology Ministry for First Baptist Church East Eighth Street in Chattanooga, Tennessee. Frederick is the author of three books: The Forgotten World of Fred, The Love of Priestess Sophiar, and The Book of the Holy Spirit. He is married to the former Bernice Rivers and their marriage produced two children: Risa and Vernon.

Having always admired his mother, for her accomplishments in life, and especially her dedication to her family and church, he is sponsoring this scholarship to honor her after death. He will forever be indebted to her and his father (the late Mayo Marsh) for providing financial and moral support during his college and graduate school education. He is also very grateful to her for having been his constant advisor and unconditional friend.
